

ABSTRACT

Indonesia is a country that is very rich in natural resources, so this makes Indonesia a great source of lungs of the earth even throughout the World. The existence of illegal logging or often called illegal logging causes a decrease in the number of existing forests, causing frequent occurrence of natural disasters in Indonesia as well as the effects of Global Warming in the World. With the increasing number of illegal logging, it is very necessary to take action to overcome the illegal logging of illegal logging actors in order to reduce the occurrence of such criminal acts so as to provide a deterrent effect on the perpetrators who have done it.

The purpose of this research is to know how effort to overcome illegal logging by Batang Police. To know the factors that hamper efforts to overcome the criminal act of illegal logging cases by Batang Police. Illegal Logging is an extraordinary crime (extra ordinary crime). Therefore, in tackling criminal acts of illegal logging crimes, the most complex uses the way with the Government Regulation namely, Forest Law, Environmental Protection and Management Act, Law on Prevention and Eradication of Forest Destruction.

The research method used is sociological juridical. This approach method is used to examine the legal issues that are happening in the life of the community, especially those related to the effort to overcome illegal logging by Batang Police.

In this case the suspect logs trees in a forest area without permission or does not first notify the authorized official and without a letter and document from Perhutani. The obstacles faced by Batang Police investigators in the investigation of illegal logging cases are caused by weak and uneven coordination among law enforcers. And the legal effort done by Batang Police in tackling the criminal act of illegal logging case involving all parties in conducting the investigation, the investigator can give guidance on technical investigation to the forestry party ..
