

UNDERGRADUATE NURSING STUDY PROGRAM
FACULTY OF NURSING SCIENCE
ISLAMIC SULTAN AGUNG UNIVERSITY
MINI THESIS, JANUARY 2015

ABSTRACT

Ahmad Luthfi Sholahuddin

Predictors Factors Of Teens Aggression On The Level Of Class X High School “F” Demak

XII + 59 pages + 13 tables + 2charts + 12 appendixes

Background: Adolescents have a high risk for conduct disorder, aggression and violence both as victims and as perpetrators and violence. Factors that affect aggressive behavior in adolescents include: personal Condition teens are inborn abnormalities both physically and psychologically. Home environment and family, community and school. Results of interviews with three students who got into a fight it is known that two of them stated that their parents are busy at work and of further information is known that they often see their parents at loggerheads. Besides, the life of students who are causing the market environment adolescents often see unscrupulous people who often ask for a security deposit in the market environment. The purpose of this study was to determine the factors that affect the rate of adolescent aggression class X High School F Demak

Methods: This study is a quantitative research observational analytic cross sectional study, with this design the researcher will analyze the factors that affect the rate of adolescent aggression class X High School F Demak. The sample in this study was 63 students. The analysis used logistic regression.

Results: The majority of respondents were in a good family environment with a number of 37 respondents (58.7%). Most respondents were in a good school environment with a number of 44 respondents (69.8%). Most of the respondents were in a good community with a number of 45 respondents (71.4%). Most respondents behave aggressively with the number of 32 respondents (50.8%).

Conclusion: There is a relationship with the family environment aggressive students with p-value 0.008. There is a school environment relationship with aggressive students with a p-value of 0.002. There is a community relationship with aggressive students with a p-value of 0.004. The variables that most influence on adolescent aggression is a neighborhood school with Exp (B) = 4193

Keywords: aggressiveness, environment, family, community, school

Reference: 28 (1991-2012)